November really is the season of reflection. The majority of the year has passed and you begin to think of aspirations that consumed you in January and all of the spring projects that consumed your calendar for the next several months. May be your mind races to the memories made on vacation or with friends and family. And if you are like me, you are enjoying the weather rather than thinking about the unfinished projects on the to-do list.

Reflection also includes those who have given some or all of their time in service to the people of this nation. This week we remember the veterans all branches of service, regardless of the duration or location of their service. Each has spent time away from family and friends, often missing important days, all in service to a call greater than themselves. Each of them deserves a heart-felt thank you from each of us!

Expressing our gratitude toward those who served our country extends over into our gratitude for the resources that we enjoy because God has blessed the United States of America. However, events in the news often speak predictions of what is to come should we ever lose that gratitude to our Heavenly Father. Any student of Scripture will understand that the nations of the Old Testament and the nations of the New Testament, especially those to whom the gospel was preached, abandoned their faith in God in favor of worldly opportunities. No longer are they the thriving communities enjoying the blessing of God. John writes in 1 John 3:1-3, 3 See what great love the Father has lavished on us, that we should be called children of God! And that is what we are! The reason the world does not know us is that it did not know him. ² Dear friends, now we are children of God, and what we will be has not yet been made known. But we know that when Christ appears,^[a] we shall be like him, for we shall see him as he is. ³ All who have this hope in him purify themselves, just as he is pure.

Gratitude – there is no other choice!
